About the Mission North Gold Property

The “Mission North Gold Property”, located approximately 25 kilometres north of Mission, British Columbia, is situated in an area believed to have limited or no previous exploration. Recent logging in the area in the fall/spring of 2008/2009 exposed the newly discovered “Iain’s Glory High Grade Gold Vein”, where initial samples identified significant gold, silver, copper, zinc and lead values.

The Iain’s Glory gold vein, exposed by the recent development of a logging road, is located on the eastern flank of a knoll (hillside) at an elevation of approximately 245 metres. The newly discovered vein, visible on the western flank wall of the logging road was exposed with a width of approximately 1.5 metres and visible height of 4 metres. The gold vein appears to continue into the hillside, along strike to the west, and dip steeply the northwest into the hillside at approximately 75 to 80 degrees.

General Property Geology

All mineralization is disseminated within a milky white quartz vein of an approximate width of 1.5 metres dipping sub vertically. The rock is weakly oxidized as it is proximal to surface and demonstrates minor limonite staining on the fracture surfaces. No visible gold was identified in the samples. The vein is hosted in what appears to be an igneous intrusive interpreted to be a diorite or granodiorite composition.
